

W. S. Pierce, Jr., Weds Sister of Former Fiancee at Newport Home

Miss Mary Brush, Noted American Painter's Daughter, Is a Bride.

Announcements have been received in this city of the marriage last Saturday in Dublin, N. H., of Miss Mary Brush, daughter of Mr. George de Forest Brush, well known American painter, and Mrs. Brush, of Mr. Winslow S. Pierce, Jr., a son of Mr. and Mrs. Winslow S. Pierce of Dunstable, Bayville, L. I. Mr. Pierce previously was engaged to Miss Jane Brush, who was sister's maid of honor at Saturday's wedding.

The engagement of Miss Jane Brush to Mr. Pierce was announced on January 18 last year and the wedding set for February 28. A week before the wedding date friends of the couple were informed that the engagement had been broken by mutual consent. No formal announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Mary Brush to Mr. Pierce.

Saturday's wedding took place in the community church at Dublin at noon in the presence of relatives and friends from Boston and New York. There was a reception in the summer home of the bride's parents in the New Hampshire village.

The bride, who is one of the four daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Brush, wore a gown of white satin with a tulle veil and carried a bridal bouquet. In addition to Miss Jane Brush as maid of honor the bride's attendants were Miss Sylvia Holt of New York and the Misses Elizabeth and Pauline Cabot of Boston. They wore gowns in pastel shades. Mr. Stuart H. Johnson of New York was best man and the ushers were Messrs. John Leighton Russell, Coburn Morgan Parker, James Anderson, Winslow Coates, Arthur Coates, Lindsay Bradford, Louis de M. Moore, the bridegroom's brother-in-law, and Jerome Brush, brother of the bride. The bride and her bridegroom were married by Rev. J. Baker's converted yacht. His sisters are Baroness Torphichen of London, who was Miss Grace Pierce; Mrs. Louis de M. Moore, who was Miss Helen Pierce; and Miss Helen Pierce, who now is abroad. The bridegroom's father is president of the village of Bayville. Mrs. Harold Bowditch of Brooklyn, Mass., is a sister of Saturday's bride.

Mr. Pierce served overseas for a year in the submarine destroyer service, and for a time was attached to Mr. George P. Baker's converted yacht. His sisters are Baroness Torphichen of London, who was Miss Grace Pierce; Mrs. Louis de M. Moore, who was Miss Helen Pierce; and Miss Helen Pierce, who now is abroad. The bridegroom's father is president of the village of Bayville. Mrs. Harold Bowditch of Brooklyn, Mass., is a sister of Saturday's bride.

SPRING LAKE GOLF TOURNEY.

Invitation Contest Opens To-day on Homestead Club Course.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Aug. 17.—Tomorrow will see the opening of the invitation tournament on the new course of the Homestead Golf Club. Players of all clubs affiliated with the United States Golf Association have been invited to participate, and the entry list includes some of the best players in the metropolitan district.

Mr. and Mrs. C. George Dery gave a luncheon for twenty-two friends at the Essex and Summit hotels. Arrivals included Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Finch of Plainfield; Mrs. S. J. Hamilton and J. F. Siler of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hamilton of Washington.

Miss Beatrice Goddell Holmes left today for a short stay at Long Lake in the Adirondacks. She will return to her home at the Homestead. Others there are Charles McDermott of Trenton, John McCullough of Sewickley, Pa.; D. W. Cummings of Pottsville; John H. Wilson of Pittsburgh; and Mrs. Henry C. Baldwin of New York.

Mr. Thomas Macksey of East Orange and the Misses Ruth and Mildred Macksey are at the Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Vleet of Goheen, N. Y.; Miss Marion Hall of Brook Brook, and Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Watson of Chicago are at the Warren.

ALONG THE NORTH SHORE.

Manchester Has Rummage Sale and Gloucester Has a Fair.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

BEVERLY, MASS., Aug. 17.—Mrs. Russell Codman was the chairman of the committee in charge of a rummage sale held this afternoon at Manchester for the benefit of the Travelers Aid Society. Summer colonists contributed the stock of goods and a fine sum was netted by the sale.

Afternoon and evening a country fair was given on the grounds of Hawthorne Inn, at Eastern Point, Gloucester. Mrs. William Harcourt (Alice Fletcher) of New York was the chairman of the committee. The proceeds of the fair were divided among various welfare organizations.

Mrs. Hayward Warren of Prides Crossing, who has been abroad, is expected home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell of New York have been among the recent guests at the Oceanide, at Magnolia.

Mrs. N. R. Edwards and Mrs. H. F. Moore of New York are at the Oceanide.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Waring of New York have been visiting Mrs. Waring's sister, Mrs. Russell Sullivan, at her cottage at Gloucester.

Mrs. J. Henry Lancashire of New York, who is country home in New Manchester, is sailing from Europe next Wednesday. Dr. Lancashire and Miss Lila Lancashire returned earlier in the season.

Black Hats and Gowns

An attractive Black Hat or Gown is a necessity to the well-dressed woman. While we specialize in Mourning Goods, we also show Black Hats and Gowns for all other occasions.

375 Fifth Ave.

Boston: Copley St.

Black Hats and Gowns

Black Hats and Gowns

Black Hats and Gowns

Black Hats and Gowns

Black Hats and Gowns

Black Hats and Gowns

Black Hats and Gowns

Black Hats and Gowns

Black Hats and Gowns

Black Hats and Gowns

Black Hats and Gowns

Black Hats and Gowns

Black Hats and Gowns

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

NEW YORK.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scribner will return to New York from Europe September 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot arrived from Philadelphia yesterday at the Ambassador Hotel.

Mrs. Paul Morton, who sprained an ankle at Stockbridge, Mass., three weeks ago, is convalescing.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Scott, who are in France, will return to New York late in the autumn.

Mr. William Fitz Hugh Whitehouse has purchased for his city home the Ambassador residence at 9 East Eighty-second street.

Miss Lora Robinson left yesterday for Newport where she will be a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Paul of Philadelphia.

Mrs. William B. Osgood Field and her sons, William Osgood and Frederick V. Field, of Lenox, are at the St. Regis for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Fahy and Miss Constance E. Fahy, who went abroad early in the spring, have been at Hillside, their country place at Locust Valley, L. I., since their recent return.

Mrs. Henry M. Alexander, who was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Howe in West Manchester, Mass., returned yesterday to Tuxedo.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Whitridge, who are guests of Mr. Charles B. Alexander in Tuxedo, will remain there until September, and then go to their home at 27 East Eleventh street.

Miss Barbara Sands and her brother, Mr. Winthrop Sands, will go to their home in Woodbury, L. I., from Dark Harbor, Me., September 1.

Mrs. Biddle Duke, Mr. Pierre Lorillard, and Mrs. Le Roy French will dine with friends at luncheon yesterday at Delmonico's.

Mrs. Louis M. Greer, who passed several months in Europe, is a passenger on board the Baltic, due Sunday. She will pass the fall and winter at the Ambassador Hotel.

Mrs. Henry Sellman is convalescing from an operation for appendicitis which was performed last week at Shorelands, her summer home at Locust Valley, L. I. Her condition is considered most favorable.

Mr. Philip Rhinelander authorized the statement yesterday that his daughter, Miss Adelaide Kip Rhinelander, is not engaged to Mr. Julien St. Charles Shackson, manager of the New York branch of a Philadelphia banking house, as reported.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, on her way from the White Mountains to Newport, will stop for a day at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., where Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, and Sir Ashley Sparks, American director of the Cunard Line, on a motor trip, also have been stopping.

'NOBODY'S MONEY' LACKS ACTION, HUMOR AND GAYETY OF FARCE

Will Deming and Miss Shirley De Me in "Nobody's Money."

Wallace Eddinger, Will Deming and Robert Strange Do All Possible with Poor Material.

It took a mighty laying of pipes by William Le Baron last night to get "Nobody's Money" under way at the Longacre Theatre. The plan was unusually complicated. It was necessary for the purpose of his farce that the public should believe first in two young writers; secondly, that in order to keep their contracts with publishers they had invented a third and imaginary author; thirdly, that the time had come when this creation of their ingenuity must perforce be produced. As if these conditions were not already rather thick, it was also important that the audience should understand why the two young men in their perplexed predicament had called on the publisher of the book agent and his companion, who for some reason not at all in the general line of the play happened to be a burglar.

Of course the first act, cluttered up with the sort of a thing, but little or no time for diversion. Miss Helen Lowell attempted, like the old woman who whistles, a little very quiet and unobtrusive contest by children. The optimistic audience hoped that the second act might have the air clear for fun. And what happened? No sooner had the curtain risen than a storm started on the dark stage. She worked the combination of the Governor's safe so skillfully that in a fifty there was an envelope containing $20,000 in marked bills concealed there. Certainly the mountains were laboring. As a matter of fact the labor may scarcely be said to have ceased.

Wallace Eddinger, playing the pre-arranged author, got hold of the money before the representative of the lumber trust brought his ally there to establish the gubernatorial guilt. So the enemies of the father of the girl he so suddenly loved were frustrated. His accomplice, who had been an actor in a stock company (that same old long arm of coincidence) as well as a burglar, quoted the situation up and down the line, the maid who put the money in the safe. Characters came and went. They smoked and ate. They talked and laughed. But the spirit of gayety was not in them. Mr. Le Baron had made a very solemn set out of these persons in his drama.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed to be in its veins. It may be that clear weather will loosen the joints of the comedy. They did all one could expect of skilled actors.

One may excuse the absence of various qualities in farce. But it must be vivacious. It must have wit in its lines or humor in the actions of its characters. They were all singularly inane and unobtrusive. Nothing of this kind happened in "Nobody's Money." The northeast storm seemed